11+

All applicants for 11+ entry in September 2024 will be considered for an Academic Scholarship as part of the entrance assessment process.

Girls may also apply to be considered for 11+ Music and Sport Scholarships.

Candidates will sit papers in English, Mathematics and Science. In addition they may request an interview to assess their ability in a language. Candidates will be given the option to sit a paper in one or two additional subjects of their choice in order to demonstrate particular areas of ability. There will be further interviews and assessments, where girls will be required to use their general knowledge and ability to research. No revision is required for the further assessments.

Award holders will have the opportunity to participate in seminars and discussions, some of which are reserved for the most able students. Scholars are expected to make the most of the opportunities provided by attending lectures given by visiting speakers and by participating in academic societies. Award holders are expected to maintain a high academic standard and show academic leadership inside and outside the classroom. Although not compulsory, they are also encouraged to attend the Junior Academic Forum held weekly with Sherborne School.

They will be supported by their academic tutor who will provide weekly individual coaching meetings where award holders will be supported in their scholarly endeavours and aspirations.

Scholars will be encouraged to build resilience and adaptability as they are challenged academically across all subjects.

Art and Design 13+

Awards are up to a maximum of £3,000 per annum. Means-tested bursaries can raise considerably the effective amount of an award.

Candidates for the Art and Design Scholarship (this includes Art, 3D Design and Textiles) should submit a digital portfolio two weeks before assessment to allow time for their work to be examined in advance. Candidates should submit 12 images of work with annotation. Ideally this should be sent as a Powerpoint. The portfolio may include anything that best represents their own interests and talents – paintings and drawings, collages, prints and 3D work.

Candidates should then bring one piece with them on the assessment day, to be used as a focus for discussion during interview. Unframed work is preferable and all large scale/3D work must be photographed.

Girls will be asked to produce a piece of work from a given stimulus on the assessment day. Materials will be available in the department.

Award holders will have the opportunity to work with a number of specialist staff to develop and explore a variety of media. Workshops/co-curricular activities are held regularly and there is a comprehensive programme of visits which enhance the artistic opportunities at the School. They will be supported by our artist/curator in residence who will be available in the art and design building during the evenings and at weekends.

The award holders are expected to participate fully in activities, attending workshops and events regularly. An Art and Design Scholarship is awarded on the understanding that the holder will study at least one Art and Design subject at GCSE.

Drama 13+

Awards are up to a maximum of £3,000 per annum. Means-tested bursaries can raise considerably the effective amount of an award. A drama award may cover the cost of individual drama tuition for one Speech and Drama lesson per week.

Candidates for the Drama Scholarship will be expected to take part in a group workshop. They should also prepare a short section of a published script (lasting no longer than two minutes) which they will perform. Considerable importance will be placed on the candidate's natural ability, directorial ideas and ability to work in a group. Their improvisational skills in the workshop will form 70% of the decision, with the monologue and interview contributing to the remaining 30%. Candidates should fully understand and connect with the character they are playing and present a truthful and engaging performance.

Candidates will also be interviewed by a member of staff to discuss their understanding and interest in drama as a wider subject. They should be prepared to discuss any recent performances they have taken part in and any recent productions they have seen, either professional or amateur.

Please note the Drama Scholarship can also be awarded for technical theatre or stage management. Girls interested in applying for this would still need to take part in the group workshop but would substitute the solo performance for a discussion of their previous experience in technical theatre/stage management. If they feel a portfolio of evidence would support them in this, they would be welcome to bring one. Technical award holders would be expected to help with the lighting, sound or stage management for all the school productions each year, including some examination work.

Award holders are expected to audition for each production available to them. They will also have the opportunity to take Speech and Drama lessons as a solo, duo or group. Award holders will be expected to be good ambassadors for drama around the School, taking an active part in House Drama and taking every opportunity offered to visit the theatre in order to broaden their practical knowledge of the subject. Drama scholars would be expected to study drama at GCSE.

Music 11+ and 13+

Music holds a very special place in the tradition of cultural excellence at Sherborne Girls. We allocate music awards to encourage and enable a wide range of prospective scholars to experience the benefits and challenges of making music in a warm, encouraging and vibrant department. Awards are up to a maximum of £3,000 per annum. Means-tested bursaries can raise considerably the effective amount of an award. An award covers the cost of music tuition for up to three lessons per week.

Music Scholarship candidates should be prepared to play two contrasting pieces on their first instrument and where they study another instrument, one piece on their second. A member of music staff will act as an accompanist. Sufficient time will be given for rehearsal before the audition. There will also be some sight-reading and aural tests appropriate to the experience of the candidate. Any original compositions will also be taken into account. Candidates aged 12 or 13 are usually expected to have reached the equivalent of Grade 5 on their first instrument. Candidates aged 11 should have reached Grade 4. Music candidates are encouraged to book a pre-audition with the Director of Music before entering for a Music Scholarship. Award holders will have the opportunity to perform regularly both as members of musical groups and as soloists in a broad variety of musical styles.

The school calendar incorporates a vibrant programme of large-scale choral and orchestral concerts, alongside a wide-ranging series of jazz and popular music concerts and events. A concert series of world class professional artists brings a variety of musicians to give masterclasses and recitals. The annual Harriet Tory Masterclass, in memory of a former pupil, is a very special event focusing on a specific area of the girls' musical work. Masterclasses in recent years have been given by such distinguished figures as Dame Emma Kirby, Richard Standage, Samuel Coles, Ken Burton, Richard Dickins and The Carducci Quartet.

Award holders are expected to practise regularly, participate in appropriate ensembles and attend rehearsals promptly, being ambassadors for the Music Department and the School. Girls living overseas are required to arrange their end-of-term travel arrangements to allow them to attend all final services and concerts.

Additional information for music scholars:

In addition to Piano and the full complement of orchestral instruments, tuition is offered on Baroque Recorder, Saxophone, Harp, Organ, Percussion, drum kit, songwriting, music production and acoustic and electric guitar. Many girls also study singing. The Music Department also offers courses in the Alexander Technique. By helping musicians improve the quality of the physical movements involved in playing an instrument or singing, the Alexander Technique also helps improve the quality of the music itself.
